Boys' Wit.

The late Dr. William Arnot, of Scotland, was noted for broad and accurate knowledge of the Bible, and for a ready wit, equal to every emergency. He was the youngest child in a large Scotch family, and, having a weak body with an alert tongue, was often imposed on by his older brothers and sisters. In contests with the tongue he was pretty sure of a victory, but stood no chance of success in rougher squabbles. After a brief absence from home, the father called the children to give an account of their behavior.

They all turned on William, and told hard stories about him, each one putting on an extra touch and making him out a great mischief-maker. Many of their tales were manufactured out of whole cloth, and William listened with wonder. At length the father turned to him and said,—

"Well, William, what have you to say to all this?" He could hardly keep his face when the little fellow replied,—

"Blessed are ye when all men shall revile and persecute you."

The aptness of the reply atoned in part for an irreverent use of Scripture, and the father came into full sympathy with the persecuted boy.

An illustration of the uses of the telephone in submarine work is afforded in the operations connected with the raising of the vessel La Provence, which sank in the Bosphorus. A telephone was added to the diver's dress, one of the glasses of the helmet being replaced by a copper plate, in which a telephone was inserted, so that the diver had only to turn his head slightly in order to receive his instructions and report what he saw.

Well! well! Just think of Admiral Nicholson obeying that order to distribute his squadron (?) about the Mediterranean and protect American interests. Poor Nicholson, will you put one man afloat on the chicken coop, another on the main hatch, and so on?

Now that we have discovered that Prince Charles of Germany smokes three cigars at once, we feel it our duty to warn all Americans visiting the Fatherland against asking the grasping old fellow to smoke.

The Coldstream and Grenadier Guards have been quartered at the Royal Palace at Raulah, near this city.
